ELECTIONS OF FACULTY REPS. ARE POSTPONED

Last Minute Change Necessitated by Circumstances.

CAMPAIGN MANAGERS

Elections to Take Place on November 30th.

A last-minute change necessitated by force of circumstances has postponed the election of the Faculty Representatives until one week from to-day. This change was thought advisable as the majority of the students neglected to note the date originally set, and presumed that, as has been the habit in the past, the elections would fall at a later date. Added to this was the fact that the platforms that are expected as a matter of course from each candidate were in some cases not supplied up to the time the Daily went to press.

With the main intention of being assured that every McGill undergrad be fully aware of the date and that every candidate may realize that his platform must be furnished for publication, the Council concluded that it would be for the best to postpone the elections until November 30th.

This step was taken by the Council to stir up better and more universal enthusiasm; to be consistent with this aim, the Daily wishes to announce that from this date until the 30th, campaign propaganda is solicited and will be published. A campaign column will be initiated with to-morrow's issue and this announcement goes out as an invitation for the respective candidates to appoint their publicity managers and set them at work. Advance publicity of any nature whatsoever will be accepted by the Daily for publication in the column: should anything be taken as libel by a candidate the Daily wish it strictly understood that it will assume no responsibility for the authenticity of the facts.

Campaign managers are advised that all publicity should be labelled as such, addressed to the Campaign Editor and deposited in the letter-box on the inside of the Daily office door. It will not be edited or revised and will be published as coming from the party campaign manager. At a later date, the cuts of the various candidates will be published in the paper. A representative of the paper will get in touch with the men and will receive their photographs for publication.

CERCLE LITTERAIRE FORMED AT R.V.C.

Branch of Societe Francaise for Grads. and Undergrads.

Monday evening marked the opening of a new chapter in the history of the "Societe Francaise" when the "Cercle Litteraire" was inaugurated. This is not a new society but simply a branch of the "Societe" which will include Honorary French graduates and Undergraduates to the limited number of twelve. Mlle Touren, Honorary-President of the "Societe" took the chair and proposed that the "Cercle" be quite informal and dispense with any executive or constitution as the "Societe" had sufficient for herself and child—that there be no membership fee (applause!), that the "Cercle" meet once a fortnight at the Royal Victoria College, and that the members themselves provide the programme for future meetings (contentment!).

Mlle Touren then outlined a plan to be followed at meetings of the "Cercle," suggesting that one student discuss a major subject of interest to students of French, such as modern French Periodicals, novels, and plays and that three students undertake to introduce a minor subject for discussion, such as French Fashions, painters, actors, actresses, and singers. Mlle proposed then that the "Cercle" attend several performances at the "Canadien-français" theatre and discuss the plays and players at a subsequent meeting. The members present adopted these suggestions with enthusiasm and to prove their good intentions settled on an impromptu speaking contest as the entertainment for the evening. The talent revealed by the speakers augurs well for the success of the new venture. "The Yellow Peril," "Reducing Tablets," "The First Love or the Last Love," "Fashions," "Old Houses," were some of the subjects amusingly treated by the speakers. The very successful meeting closed with the serving of refreshments.

LIT. TO HOLD MEETING TO-MORROW NIGHT

Debate on Political Subject to be Held.

IN UNION 8.15.

Intercollegiate Debates on the Fifth of December.

An interesting political discussion is promised to all who attend the meeting of the Literary Society, which is to be held to-morrow night at a quarter past eight in the Union, when a debate of considerable importance, in so much as it will be the final trial of the intercollegiate debaters, is to be staged.

The subject to be thrashed out is: "Resolved, that the Party system of government as in force in the United States is more representative of the electorate than the group system as in force in France." The affirmative is to be upheld by Kallahan and Long, while their opponents will be O'Hagan and Senecal. All who have heard any of these men in action expect to be presented with an interesting display of sound argument and a brilliant oratorical exhibition that will justify a large attendance at the meeting. The topic under discussion will afford an opportunity for a searching analysis of the present constitutions of the two republics in so far as they affect popular representation.

At the present time the Dominion elections, which are to be held in the near future, have given a great stimulus to political thought and discussion in the University, as witnessed by the great interest shown in the Mock Parliament and in the course of lectures on politics, and more especially is popular interest centred upon the tariff question. It is upon this subject that the intercollegiate debates on December 5th are to be held. A team of debaters representing Queen's University will uphold the case for moderate protection down here; while McGill's visiting team will take up the same side at Toronto in a debate against Varsity.

All interested in these political issues are invited to attend to-morrow night, and all may come with the certainty of hearing a fine debate.

WESLEYANS HELD FINE MEETING

Rev. Dr. Rose to Address Students To-night.

The growing popularity of Students' Sunday in the Methodist Churches of Montreal was evidenced Sunday night. The church was packed almost to overflowing, seats having to be placed in the aisles. Twenty-five students from Wesleyan were in attendance, and had charge of the service.

V. Laite conducted the service, and W. Eddy was the preacher. Taking as his text Luke 22, 27, "I am in the midst of you, as He that serveth," Mr. Eddy, in his own graphic way, pictured the life of Christ as one spent in serving others. He lucidly portrayed how one may serve from wrong motives and commended the

DENTS. HELD FINE MEETING LAST NIGHT

The Dental Orchestra Made Its First Appearance.

BANQUET IN FEB.

Mr. Franklin Gave Address on "The Development of Dentistry."

The regular monthly meeting of the Dental Society was held last night in the New Medical Building. At this meeting the newly-formed Dental orchestra made its debut. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and it was announced that the society would hold its annual banquet on Feb. 22nd 1922.

Mr. Feis the leader of the orchestra asked for the sum of nine dollars to buy music. His request was granted.

The president then called on Gerald Franklin to read a paper on "The Development of Dentistry." The paper was very well written and although primarily written for the society, would prove interesting to anyone, be he student or not.

The speaker told of how Shakespeare mentions toothache and said that we have evidence that the ancient Babylonians also suffered with their teeth and of how they made attempts to remedy their ills with the crude wooden and stone instruments at their disposal.

Mr. Franklin gave some significant dates and facts regarding the advancement of his profession. He spoke of the Romans making bone teeth, the introduction of chloroform and ether in the nineteenth century and how these anaesthetics benefited man.

In concluding the speaker made some suggestions and also prophesies as to the future of the profession. He declared that a co-related medicine-dentistry course should be instituted, so that in future dentists will know, a great deal more of the relation of the mouth to the other parts of the body.

Mr. Franklin was given a hearty vote of thanks for his paper, and after refreshments were served, during which the orchestra again played the meeting adjourned.

TRACK TEAM WILL BE PHOTOGRAPHED

Captain of Team for Next Year to be Chosen.

The Track Team, Intercollegiate champions for the fourth time in succession, will have a photograph taken on Friday afternoon at five o'clock in Notman's studio. All of the men who made the trip to Kingston to take part in the meet will be on hand to be included in the group.

The meeting of the track men will also serve as the last meeting of the club for the season and there will probably be some business transacted in connection with the activities of the club for next season. The captain of the team for next year will also be elected by the men on the team.

Notice has been given to all of the track men to turn in any equipment that is still out immediately after the picture is taken. The group will be taken in track uniforms so that any equipment belonging to the club will be brought along in any case.

The dinner which is being given to the track squad by the Students' Society will take place in the near future. The date for the affair has not been definitely arranged, as yet, but an announcement will be made within the next few days concerning the time and place that has been fixed.

MONTREAL, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1921.

ELECTION TIME.

With the announcement in this issue of the forced postponement of the elections for the Faculty Representatives, we wish to emphasize the appeal that comes from the Council for the old-time election enthusiasm. There is no reason why the enthusiasm over the college elections should not vie with that over the Dominion elections, insofar as it concerns McGill. Monday saw four hundred McGill men cutting lectures and sticking it out all afternoon to maintain their franchise in the Dominion elections. Yet in all probability a considerable portion of that same body would procrastinate or fail altogether in exercising their power to vote for the representative that they will send to the Council. If they are laboring under the delusion that the men that their vote will put on the Council are not comparatively as important as those that they will try to send to Ottawa, they should clear up their foggy understanding between now and November the thirtieth. The five Faculty Representatives really constitute the executive body that controls the general interests of the undergraduate body. They are the "members without portfolio." The other members of the Council are specialists, devoted to one specific sphere of college activity, and as such they are constantly occupied by the many calls of that branch.

It resolves, then, on the Faculty Representatives to execute the general administration of the concerns of the Students' Society. Faculty organization, dances, complaints from the student-body, requests for information—for the rendering of an account—for the backing of a request—these are all matters that come within the exclusive scope of the man that sits on the Council as your personally chosen agent.

With the exception of one faculty, the enthusiasm displayed in the nominating of candidates was highly satisfactory. It even had all the indications of a come-back of the old-time "election-peg." This enthusiasm, which has apparently waned in the interval, must be revived in the next seven days. The Daily wishes to do its part, and accordingly throws out the suggestion of advance campaign publicity. Each candidate must have at least ten staunch friends, his nominees. It is for these men to take up what they have started and carry their man through an election campaign. They have, by their nomination, declared that "he's the man for the job." The next week is their opportunity to show the rest of the college that they have the courage to back up their convictions, neglect on their part is nothing less than an insult to their nominee.

INTEREST AND EFFICIENCY.

Many students spend a great deal of time at their studies, but owing to the fact that they allow their minds to wander aimlessly about while they are working, they are unable to accomplish all that they wish to. It is only the very few who have such splendidly trained minds that they can concentrate in one specific subject to the practical exclusion of all else. The great majority of students are sure to have their attention distracted by various interesting but inconsequential little thoughts that insist on coming into their heads, and on flitting between the lines of the book they are studying, and in fact that seem to crop up at all times and most surely bear scant respect for the wishes of the would-be student.

It is a question whether many of our modern memory courses would help a student so situated. They require concentration as well as our every day tasks, and however good may be the system that they follow, there is still room for the mind to wander. About the best remedy is real genuine interest in the subject which is studying. Interest will tend to drive away the disconcerting thoughts that try to crowd into the brain. It will develop concentration, for it is a driving, compelling force that rivets the attention firmly on the matter in hand, in such a way that complete mastery of the subject will be the result. Although much may be said in favour of subjects that are supposed to develop certain mental faculties, yet it is doubtful if they fulfil their purpose when the factor of interest is lacking. Healthy, vital interest in a subject will do more to develop keen mental faculties than any amount of weary plodding through dull, classical literature, or materialistic mathematical formula.

The student should endeavor to find out what subjects interest him, then should map out his course accordingly. The importance of choosing a course that harmonizes with the natural bent of one's mind cannot be over-estimated. We should think matters over and study our own desires carefully before we definitely decide just what line of work we wish to take up; then we may go ahead and as the subjects we have elected to study become clearer for us, we will find that our interest grows with our increasing knowledge, and that our efficiency increases with our added powers of concentration.

OFF-HOURS FRESHMAN RULES

One of a freshman's hardest tasks is to avoid becoming corpulent. The Dean, the Blue Book and innumerable seniors at one time or another give him advice on almost every subject under the sun. A fat freshman has to be good-natured, can neither run nor fight—but good nature does not exempt him from punishment. One of the saddest on the campus is to watch a 220 lb. freshman trying to beat a sophomore cross-country runner to the subway station.

When a fat man gets down on his knees to propose to a girl, he invariably snaps the buttons off his suspenders. A fat man spends more for Turkish baths than he does for tuition. Although there is little danger of any sane student breaking such rules, we suggest the following "don'ts" for freshmen who might wish to fight fat.
Don't sleep too much.
Don't eat unless you are hungry.
Don't drink alcoholic beverages.
Don't take a cab-walk.
Above all never work between meals.

OPINION IS DIVIDED ON RELIEF PLAN

Should We Aid Destitute German Students?

FOR OR AGAINST.

Plea for Broad Minded Christian Internationalism.

The recent decision of the Students' Christian Movement to make no discrimination between the students of our late enemy countries and those of other Central European states in their relief work, has raised a question upon which student opinion may well be divided.

The case for this step has been put with clarity and sincere conviction by Mr. Roy H. Richard, General Secretary of the Toronto University Y.M.C.A. Mr. Richard stated that the purpose of student relief is not only to ameliorate distress, but to promote a cordial understanding and international good-will. And, while the outstanding principle underlying the relief work of the World's Students' Christian Federation is the proven need of the student to whom aid is given, where inpecunious amounts to actual destitution as in Central Europe, discrimination cannot be made according to nationality. There is developing among the universities of all the world an international student consciousness binding with firm ties those on the great adventure for the discovery of truth. The S.C.M. feels keenly that here in Canada some of our returned soldiers are forced temporarily to discontinue their studies, but conditions here will never cause war veteran students to suffer from a lack of food and clothing, as is the case in Central Europe, in Russia, Austria and Poland, where the overturn of the whole economic system has resulted in the impoverishment of not only of many students, but of thousands of family men as well.

In Central Europe there is a dearth of trained leadership in industry and in university life; and, as we have now learned, no nation can afford to seel isolation it is to our interest as well as our plain Christian duty to aid the needy students of Europe—those of Germany included. We cannot have true internationalism if any one nation is excluded, and the British universities, which have suffered much more from the war than we have, realizing this, have led the way in aiding the destitute students of Germany in common with those of other countries. While militarism is not yet wholly dead in Germany, it is to the gratitude of the students whom we aid that we must look for the promotion of the principles of world peace, goodwill, and internationalism now being discussed at Washington.

This is one side of the case. The general opinion here, however, is not so wholeheartedly international. It is felt that destitute students of Europe—with the exception of those who a few years ago were trying to kill us—should be helped. But not Germans or Austrians. On the other hand there is a problem at home. Returned Canadian soldiers are in many cases finding it difficult for financial reasons to secure an adequate education. Let us help them first.

The Editor:
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—There has appeared in the daily press a notice that the course of lectures on Politics is to be held in the R.V.C.

May I protest that the accommodation there is not suitable for lectures. Should one wish to take notes, there is no rest for a pad or paper. In a series of lectures of this nature, notes of the more important points are essential to deriving the maximum good from the course.

Secondly, the accommodation at R.V.C. is not conducive to the best reception from an acoustical standpoint. The former room was admirably suited for lectures, and the address could be heard in all portions of the room quite plainly. Then the great majority of McGill men hesitate to go too near the R.V.C., either through natural nervousness in a stronghold of the opposit sex, or for fear of the awesome atmosphere therein.

Furthermore, the rulers over that institution hold it separate from the rest of McGill by the ideals they try to suppress, and their government without responsibility to the governed. While this continues would it

SOCIETY OF PHARMACY HAS BEEN FORMED

Much Enthusiasm Shown at Initial Meeting.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Promotion of Pharmaceutical Education is Chief Aim of Society.

McGill University can boast of still another Society, for during this week a new departure was made by the Undergraduates in Pharmacy, who formed "the Society of Pharmacy of McGill University." The purposes of which are purely educational, in so far that this society will meet regularly to discuss of interest to their profession, and to invite speakers to their meetings who will enlarge on pharmaceutical subjects and research-work. The members who attended the initial meeting, and the enthusiasm displayed, augurs well for the future of this new Society. The great majority of Pharmacy students have already joined its ranks and it is certain that the remainder will soon become members. A feature of the Society being that Honorary members; including members of faculties, and graduated Pharmacists, can be elected to the Society. These having no power of legislation, the Society being purely for undergraduates, and their activities in connection with the University. Class representatives were elected in order to keep in constant touch with the students of the different classes, and also to act as a link between the members of the Society and the officers.

So much for this aspect of the Society. On the other hand our Alma Mater has not been forgotten, in other words the Society was not formed for purely selfish purposes, or for the promotion of its own interests only, without giving due consideration to our Alma Mater. For it will be in the interests of the individual members, and the Society in general, to see that its members take an active part on various literary and athletic societies, and to give its moral support to all undertakings which may bring recognition and honour to the University.

Before the close of the meeting, the officers for the ensuing academic year were elected as follows:—

Hon. Pres: Prof. A. B. J. Moore.
Pres: N. Fisk.
Vice-Pres.: A. Lambly.
Sec: Miss A. Musgrove.
Treas: H. Clarke.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22.

PEPYS AT MCGILL

Came to me this day another missive from the scrivener of the Physical Educationalists, reproving me for my absence from their meetings, and so in fact it was, for I had utterly forgotten their existence after the purchase of my strange gymnastic clothes a fortnight past; and this was to command me to be there under great pains and penalties upon this very Thursday. But Lord, was there ever anything more silly. Mr. Redlocks now much enjoyed at the nowes that our freshmen do shortly propose to give his fellows a banquet; this to cost him nothing, while I and my sorry peers must needs disgorge a most fabulous sum in the mere stuffing of these odious wretches, which puts me quite out of humour. To the playhouse were I sat perched very high up near to the rafters because of the expense, and there I saw acted a sort of medly which they call "Hello Canada," though why that name more than any other I could not at all make out. One fellow with great brown mustacios very drool withall, but I think I missed much from the too great distance I sat from the wenches who sang and danced, they being very comely, but too far off. Said in discourse afterwards to one who was with me that the conceits smacked not a little of old age, and he did agree with me in this; and so home, and to the reading of a little Natural Science, which I could not at all make out, and then to bed, very tired.

A new process for the manufacture of synthetic camphor from turpentine has been perfected, which it is believed, will relieve the people from the present monopoly held by the Japanese.

PROMISE OF GOOD TIME FOR E.T. MEN

Dance of Richmond Club to be Held on Thursday.

Eastern Township men who have perused the columns of the Daily, and have attended the meetings of the Eastern Township Club read, or heard the announcement, that the Richmond Club have extended a cordial invitation to the E. T. Club members to enjoy with them their pleasant evenings held in Alexander Hall once per month.

The second of these evenings is Thursday, the 24th inst., and it is hoped that all who are interested will turn out on the above date.

It is needless to mention the terms offered, but in case of forgetfulness here they are:

The membership fee of the Richmond Club is two dollars, and the admittance fee to each dance one dollar and fifty cents for members; hon. members are requested to pay two dollars for admittance. The female members of the club offered to supply cakes and sandwiches, but should any man feel strange and bashful about mentioning this item to his partner, relief is found in the confectioner's store beneath the Hall, where cakes may be had for a nominal cost.

A real good time is assured to all those who go, as the hall is just the right size for such an affair, and the music is of first class order. It is needless to add that the atmosphere of these functions is of a very soci-

1. Now it came to pass that when Zaccius came unto the city of Montreal he was amazed by the wonder of the mighty city and stood as one in a dream, and he feasted his eyes upon the multitudes which thronged the streets.

2. And Zaccius was sore tempted to linger and to follow the multitudes to where ever they might go.

3. But he was constrained by the words of his parents and sought the Temple of Knowledge—McGill.

4. Now Zaccius' friend Jasius did instruct Zaccius as to how he should conduct himself upon his arrival at McGill. And so Zaccius straightway betook him unto the office of the registrar and here did choose the great profession of a doctor of medicine. Then he went and abode in Strathcona Hall.

5. Zaccius made many friends and boastfully spake unto them about his dreams and they took counsel amongst themselves shaking their heads and spake in this wise. "Our brother Zaccius hath many strange and foolish notions and because he is a freshman the Sophomores will deal with him and we shall hear of his chastisement ere long."

6. But Zaccius still heeded not the advice of his friends but did boldly proclaim in public his vain boastings until he became hated yea, he was even taken before the high court of students.

INTEREST IN WATER POLO RUNNING HIGH

McGill Tied With M.S.C. For First Place.

McGILL HAS STRONG TEAM.

Seniors Will Play M. A. A. Team Next Week.

A crucial game in Intermediate Water Polo is to be played to-night, when McGill and Maisonneuve meet for the second time this season. The McGill men had a good workout yesterday afternoon in preparation for their battle and all the players are in good trim. Coach Vernet put them through a snappy practice and it may be said without exaggeration, that the college squad has shown a great improvement since the beginning of the season. The Intermediate team is largely composed of men who have not played together before this season and the team is consequently under a great disadvantage. The Maisonneuve men on the other hand have worked together for a number of seasons and they have developed clever team work and combination.

When these two teams met for the first time this year the men from Maisonneuve scored a decisive victory over the students and at present stand at the top of the Intermediate league. The McGill team, however, has shown constant improvement and by gaining a steady string of victories the team stands in the second place. A win to-night will place the men from old McGill on a par with the Maisonneuve team and a good game is assured. Vernet's sea lions are out to score a victory and it will take a lot of drowning to keep them from their objective. However the team needs moral support and all the players expect to see a large number of the well known brand of leather lunged supporters on hand when the whistle sends the two teams into action to-night. The game will be played in the tank at the Central "Y" and will start at half past eight o'clock. There will be a general admission of a quarter and it is hoped that a good number of McGill men will willingly part with their two bits.

The McGill team will have Brown between the posts; Fosyth and Anson will be on the defense; J. Ross will be holding down his usual place at centre and Vickerson and Munro will be the forwards.

IS THIS YOU?

He sat in the back seat of his automobile, out in front of the new U. S. C. administration building, and wondered why the darned old car didn't go.

Students who passed at various times with books on their arms gave the man in the back seat a curt "Hi!" if they poked at all. Those who went by with loose elbows bound for no place drawn in "easy-going" "Howdy, old man?" and stopped to help wear out the upholstery of the car for an hour or so.

That same student sits in a back seat near the window in all his classes, and wonders why the professor calls on him so often. The students who sit up front and answer the questions only smile when the back-seater fails in his recitations, but his friends say: "We should worry. The course is easy."

Some day, around flunk-out time, a man will come out of the building and start the car for the man in the back seat. Obeying instructions, the man of leisure will take the wheel, pull out of his parking place, and drive away. The friends who have lounged with him will disappear at the same time. They will never come back, but no one will miss them much.

U. S. C. has no room for the back-seat student. Only real Trojans survive the annual weeding out, when those who have failed in their work will be told that their presence is not only no longer desired, but that their parking place is required for some one else's car. O.H.K. The Southern California Trojan.

GIRLS, DON'T GRAB!

Listen, girls! Whenever a college youth tells you he thinks so much of you that he would die for you, don't fall upon his neck and softly murmur: "Get the marriage license!"

Instead, ring for the undertaker. For, according to Dr. Thomas Z. Davis, of Chicago, that young man can't die for you because he already is a "dead one."

Dr. Davis is not a coroner; he's not even a doctor of medicine, but he's a doctor of philosophy. Besides, he's nationally known as an expert in psychology who can tell at a glance whether the college man has girls mirrored upon his brain. The education wizard says he only has to look through a batch of study report cards to tell immediately whether the student is burning up money on a girl or midnight oil. This scientific shocker made students shuffle in a lecture recently, but the doctor chased Cupid about the room and had his wing feathers plucked and his arrows broken across the eminent psychologist's knee. "Concentrate," admonished the doctor. "Forget dates," auto rides, parties. Concentrate, or it's the discard for you girls! If you don't concentrate you will be marrying a mass of empty brain cells and then live in a shack for the rest of your life." The speaker asserted that not more than one young man in a million these days is taking himself in hand in a way to make the most of himself.

BOXING CLUB HAD WORKOUT YESTERDAY

Large Numbers at Practice Show Enthusiasm.

INTER-FACULTY BOXING.

Qualifying Round for Science to-night at 8 P.M.

The boxing club held its regular practice yesterday afternoon in Molson Hall. The ranks of the boxers are swelling rapidly, for there were about 70 men out. Trainer Robinson put his men through some shadow boxing, following which the men paired off and tagged a number of short snappy bouts.

Arrangements are practically completed for the inter-faculty boxing competition. An effort is being made to award medals also numerals to the winners from each faculty. There are already seventy-five entries in for this competition and the list closes on Thursday night.

This evening at 8.00 p.m., the qualifying round for Science men will be held. To this the general public is invited. It is expected that the elimination bouts to determine the representatives from Arts and Commerce will be held Saturday afternoon.

Following is the draw for to-night.

108 lb. Class.
W. B. Hamilton and Sharpe.

125 lb. Class.
G. P. Graham and J. A. Beachering.

This bout will be put on at the Ontario Club smoker.

GAME AT 8.30.

A Win Will Tie Intermediates for First Place.

is running high, with the three teams

Interest in the senior water polo series entered in the league still in the running for the championship. McGill are tied with the Montreal Swimming Club team for first place in the league, but M. A. A. can even up the standing in the league by winning both of their home games.

From the present indications McGill appears to have the strongest team of the three, as the Red and White have an aggregation that might well be termed all-stars at aquatic work. Early in the season they lost a game to M. S. C., by a score of 5 to 3, but came right back and shut them out with a 5 to 0 score last week. Both McGill and M. S. C. have defeated the Montreal A. A. A. team but as the winged wheelers have to play their remaining games at home they have a strong chance of winning.

The work of 'Bib' Laishley in the nets for the college team has been one of the outstanding features of the season. When the season started the goal-keeping position seemed to be the weak spot on the McGill team but the advent of Laishley to the senior squad strengthened it to such an extent that he is considered to be one of the strongest men in the city for that position.

The forward line contains three of the most prominent Canadian swimmers and polo players. Vernet, at centre, is considered to be one of the fastest middle distance swimmers in the world having already made a name for himself in the last Olympic games. Fisk has amassed a long string of swimming honors and is the Canadian backstroke champion, but his outstanding work has been in water polo. There is not a goaler in the aquatic polo game who does not fear his dangerous backhand drives that are sent with amazing rapidity at the most unexpected times. Parsons is a strong defensive player and works in well with the combination on the offense to keep the opposing teams on the jump at all times.

Foss and Leadley in the defensive positions are veterans at the game. For the past few seasons they have been playing together on the McGill team and they have perfected a system whereby very few men are able to get past them and close on to the nets.

The remaining games will be watched keenly by both students and the general sporting public. Next week McGill will meet M. A. A. while the week following the Peel street club will clash with M. S. C. Should M. A. A. A.

INDOOR BASEBALL GAME LAST NIGHT

Med. '27 Defeated Law '24 by 17-5.

Last evening Med. '27 went into action against Law '24 and finally emerged the victors by the score of 17-5.

Both pitchers twirled a good ball but were a little weak in fielding, allowing numerous hits to count for runs.

Smythe, Richardson and Green were the hard hitters for the winners, Smythe collecting a couple of two baggers and just missed a homerun on a close decision.

Grossman and Quackenbush played a good game in the field, while the team as a whole gave good support.

Mendlesohn, Badshaw and Baker were mainly responsible for the losers' runs while their skipper Echenberg worked hard in the field.

The line-up of the teams was as follows:

Med. '27 vs. Law. '24

Smythe, G. P. Mendlesohn, S. L.

Caplan, J. Usher, P.

Grossman, M. Badshaw, H.

Quackenbush, A. Echenberg, H.

Richardson, C. F. Anderson, D.

Green, T. Baker, H.

Gavsic, Rudenko, S.

..... Epstein, B.

Score by innings:

1 2 3 4 5 Total

Med. '27 9 0 2 4 2 -17

Law. '24 0 1 1 1 2 -5

The remaining schedule for this week will be Nov. '23, Dent. '24 vs. Dent. '25.

Nov. '24 Com. '22 vs. Com. '24.

Nov. '25, Sci. '24 vs. Arts '25.

Another schedule will be published before the end of the week which will cover all the games that will be played in the first round. At the close of this schedule all teams that have won two games or have won one game and drawn one will enter the second round.

The standing of the League at present will be published in to-morrow's "Daily."

First Basketball Practice Tonight

Senior Team Has Secured Competent Coach.

George Fox will coach the senior basketball team this year. A veteran at the game and a man of strong personality who can keep perfect control over the players, he should prove to be a very popular addition to the already long list of athletic instructors at the college.

The new coach is a graduate of the Springfield College of Physical Education and has had much experience both at playing and coaching the basketball game. In his senior year at the physical education college he played with their 'varsity' team and made quite a name for himself and after graduation took up the work of coaching and handled the Hartford, Connecticut, High School team in the Yale Scholastic league for five years.

Fox is already well known at McGill being a student in the faculty of Medicine and he has handled the whistle in many of the important basketball contests about the city. Anyone who has seen him refereeing a game would at once appreciate the fact that he has a thorough knowledge of the rules and the finer points of the game.

His work of handling the team will begin tonight when the opening practice will be held in the gymnasium at Molson Hall at 5.30 o'clock. There is an unusually large number of stellar basketball players at the college this session and the new coach should have an abundance of material from which to pick the teams. The graduation of the Kern brothers last year left a hole in the guard positions that will be difficult to fill up but the new men who have come here with good reputations should make up for the losses suffered.

It has not been definitely decided, as yet, whether the Molson Hall or the Highlanders' gymnasium will be used for the workouts of the team throughout the season but an announcement is expected from the Department of Physical Education within the next few days concerning the arrangements made.

THERE ARE MANY.

There are many who talk on from ignorance rather than from knowledge, and who find the former an inexhaustible fund of conversation. —Hazlitt.

He: She simply hung on every word he said.

She: Goodness knows they were strong enough.

WESLEYANS HELD FINE MEETING.

motive and spirit of Jesus as the guiding principles of our service to humanity. His appeal to the young men and women of Verdun to dedicate their lives to the service of God and humanity cannot have been made in vain; and the influence and spirit of the whole service must surely abide with that congregation. E. Moulard sang a solo.

Last night a special meeting of the Students' Society Executive was held at 7 o'clock, C. Davis presiding. The business was speedily dispensed with, and Basil Robertson and O. Strappe were received as deputation from the athletic and social depts.

Yesterday evening the Wesleyan men sent a bouquet of flowers to W. Harris, Science '24, and a resident at Wesleyan, who is at present in hospital. We are glad to learn from T. Currant, who conveyed the flowers, that Harris is making progress towards recovery.

To-night the Orchestra will play in the Dining Hall from 6-6.30, and at 6.45 a meeting, under the auspices of the Literary Department, will be held in the ground floor class room. This meeting is being held in recognition of Canadian Authors' Week, and Rev. Dr. Gifford, has kindly consented to preside. An address on "Canadian Authors and Their Works" will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Rose. This is the first time Dr. Rose has addressed the students' body since his appointment to the faculty, and every resident is strongly urged to be present. McGill men are invited. A pleasing feature of the evening will be a solo, "In Flanders Fields," by E. Moulard.

The attention of all Wesleyan Theat. students is called to the announcement appearing in the "Notice" column of this issue.

DEFENSE OF YOUTH.

There are three distinct stages in the metamorphosis of man: infancy, youth and old age. During the first he is petted when he cries and cries when he is not petted. In the second stage he pats himself on the back with the belief that he is an all-knowing being, scorning those who are now in the first stage and condescending if he hearkens to the words of his elders, whether they be sound or not. The last stage is the most peculiar, however, and the most difficult of diagnosis, for here he pats the infant, scolds the youth and asks petting and patting for himself.

The present decade has brought about a situation which causes us to give the above definition more than passing consideration, even though it lacks that peculiar definiteness which a scientific interpretation might possess. For today those of the third stage are descending with religious wrath and cries of indignation that the modern youth is living too "fast", disregarding morals and traditional custom for the worship of the great god Pleasure. Dances are said to be bordering close on the immoral, divorces are becoming more and more frequent and marriage vows are said to be considered with little or no respect. Everything is wrong, and the young people are to blame, say those of the third stage.

But let us hearken to the words of Dr. Paul Voelker, president of Olivet college. "I want to say," he declares, "that the young men and women of America are just as moral as we, their parents and elders, make them." Here, then, from one who has himself been through the first and second stages, and who is now in the third, we find the key to the situation. If the elder critics—and surely they mean well—would only take more seriously the fact that "good is as good is taught", that if they would only realize that they themselves were in the second stage of the metamorphosis at one time, and had undergone all the trials and tribulations which their children are now passing through, less criticism and unjust blame would be passed around, and correction would be the word of the day. Teach a child to do wrong by example, and he is bound to follow the advice of his teacher, but teach him to do right, to act right and to think right, and the result will be doubly beneficial. Man learns as he lives!

INTERESTING ITEMS FROM OLD PAPER

Quotations from University Magazine of 1883.

CO-EDUCATION QUESTION.

Several Extracts Referring to Other Colleges and Sports.

Through the kindness of Mr. R. F. Smith, Science '83, the "Daily" has obtained temporary possession of a copy of the "University Gazette" of April 1st, 1883. The copy is No. 6 Volume 6 and consists of sixteen pages of news and advertising. Under the heading of Editorial Committee is found the names of Prof. Chas. E. Moyle, B.A., Consulting Editor and R. F. Puttan, B.A., Med. '84, Editor. Both of these men are still very well known in McGill, Dean Moyle having recently retired from the Faculty of Arts and Dr. Puttan is at present the Director of the Department of Chemistry.

The contents of the "Gazette" included Editorials, Contributions, College World, Between the Lectures, Personal, Correspondence, Poetry and New Books Received by Librarian.

In the Editorial column, the first thing to be noticed is an editorial on the question of co-education. It starts as follows: "The question of the admission of women to the educational advantages of McGill University is, we believe, under discussion at this moment. A committee has been appointed by the Corporation to collect information regarding the internal economy of the institutions which have already sanctioned altogether or in part what seems to be an extremely revolutionary movement." The article goes on to point out the development of the movement in England and quotes some English arguments against higher education of women, including: "First that the average female mind is not capable of grasping the more difficult subjects of the University course; that learning converts women into pedants; that learning called 'blue-stockings'—so that its general prevalence among the sex would destroy the charm of social life." The article gives a general outline of the movement in various countries and closed with an appeal for cautious action. The world has greatly changed in this respect since the quoted editorial was written.

Under the heading of Contributions is found a long article on the glories and short-comings of Cicero, the author signing himself "Ciceronianus". It must be admitted that articles of this nature do not overburden the college publications of to-day.

The College World dealt with various subjects including rugby, football, hockey, dinners, etc. According to the reports in this section the Hockey Club evidently had a very favourable season, having defeated the Victoria Club and having held the Quebec team to a tie. The second seven also defeated the Victoria seconds by a score of two to nothing. An account of the annual dinner of the "embryo barristers and notaries" is also recorded as well as an account of the Annual University Lecture. This was delivered on the twenty-seventh of March by Principal Dawson, who outlined the history of McGill. The following quotation will be of interest to many: "After the lecture the students' Glee Club rendered a programme of songs for the benefit of the company. A large number of students would have been present but for the proximity of the Examinations."

There are also given the results of the Sessional Examinations and it is extremely interesting to note the comparatively small lists compared with those of to-day.

Under "General" is found items from numerous colleges on the continent and in Europe, including some statements on co-education, a question that must have been uppermost in the minds of the students of the day. In a reference to Queens there is a statement which says that the total of students is "162, the largest number ever reached." Time certainly has made changes in this respect also.

In the column entitled "Between the Lectures" there are found many interesting examples of the wit of 1883 including the following: "Prof. In Physiology Class—'Which is the most delicate of the senses?' Boy—'The sense of touch, because my chum here can feel his mustache but no one can see it.' Also this: 'They call it a case of drunkenness in Chicago when a pedestrian tries to set his watch by a thermometer.'"

There is also a fragment said to have been taken from a genuine manuscript of Pepys and the story is called "The Ruler in the Decan." In the present "Daily" there are at present appearing articles which are said to be written by the descendant of Pepys but up to the present the absolute authenticity of the relationship has not been established.

There is only one contribution in the Correspondence Column the letter being entitled "Our Lawn Tennis Club for 1883." The author of the letter signed himself "Tennis Ball," which is an interesting parallelism to some of the signatures in the present correspondence column.

In the column devoted to poetry is found a selection covering a column and a half entitled Two Studies, written by one who signed himself Jake. This is more pretentious than most efforts in the College at present.

In closing it must be regretted that more extracts could not have been given as the whole issue is filled with items that would prove interesting to the average student and some of the articles and editorials are undoubtedly worthy of full quotation, if time and space would only permit.

WELL, DO THEY?

The discussion in English class had turned to the correct use of words applying to some particular sort of action. The words "Saunter, slide, etc." were explained. Then the Prof. said, "What is it that toddlers?"

Voice in rear: "Nobody any more."

Group Domination —A Menace to the development of Canada and the unity of our people

THE original movement out of which the Crerar policy has developed, was set in motion by a group of grain traders in the West, headed by Wood, a Missourian, for the sole purpose of controlling Western wheat. The main interest of both Crerar and Wood, is not the raising of, but the exploitation of wheat.

As selfish interests were the foundation of the movement, so in its development selfishness continued to be its chief characteristic.

In fact, so selfish and dangerous has Crerar's policy become that a number of the men who originally took a leading part in the movement, men highly respected in farming communities, such public-spirited and patriotic men as Clark, Fletcher, Henders, Ferguson and others, have withdrawn from Crerar's group and have repudiated his plans as a step towards national suicide.

Crerar advocates everything for the special benefit of his group without regard to the great majority of the people and with no thought for the welfare of the Dominion as a whole.

He is committed to his group to destroy every vestige of the Tariff and introduce Free Trade—which would surely destroy the industries of our towns and cities, throwing many thousands of Canadian men and women out of work and driving them to the United States for a livelihood.

Crerar's policy presents Group Domination in a most menacing form, and as Fletcher said:

"We must stamp out this system as we would deal with a dreaded disease and we have a right to expect the assistance of all people who respect Canadian institutions."
